About Dominieren First Aid Training Division

The Dominieren First Aid Training Division is dedicated to delivering high-quality, practical, and compliant first aid training that equips individuals and organizations with essential life-saving skills. Our training programs are designed to build confidence, competence, and the ability to respond effectively in emergency situations, whether in the workplace or the community.

We operate under South African School of First Aid Education (SASFAE), which is accredited by the Department of Employment and Labour, as well as relevant Sector Education and Training Authorities (SETAs), including the Transport Education Training Authority.

Through this affiliation, we ensure that all training meets national standards and legislative requirements, providing accredited certification that is recognized across multiple industries.

At Dominieren First Aid Training Division, we are committed to excellence, compliance, and empowering people with the skills that save lives.
